1. General information

2. Learning goals

3. Assessment (1st and 2nd call)

4. Methodology, learning tasks, syllabus and resources

4.1. Methodological overview

The subject consists of the elaboration of a work under the supervision of a director and its subsequent defense before a court. Under the supervision of the director of the work, the student will raise a practical legal question or problem and will analyze the possible solutions offered by the legal system and the most appropriate for the interests of a hypothetical client.

The report must reflect a work developed independently and personally by the student.

The student will get in touch with the professor who should direct the work and once the topic is finalized, they will set the tutoring sessions in which they will analyze the development of the work. The direction can take the form of co-direction of the work. Both the director and, where appropriate, the co-directors must be professors at the University of Zaragoza who belong to one of the areas of knowledge related to the Master's degree in Administrative Management.

4.2. Learning tasks

Learning tasks will be programmed by directors of Graduate Dissertation.

4.3. Syllabus

Given the specific nature of this subject, the learning activities are limited to tutoring sessions with the academic tutor.

4.4. Course planning and calendar

Once the enrollment period is over, the student must state the areas of knowledge in which they wish to carry out the master's final project, arranged according to their preference. Once the applications have been received, the coordinator of the master will make public the list of students and the assigned area of knowledge, considering that the distribution to each of the areas of knowledge will be carried out taking into account the number of credits assigned in the teaching of the Master, with priority the students with the best record. After publication, 3 days will be allowed to present allegations.

Once the tutor has been appointed and the title of the TFM has been chosen, the student will arrange with his tutor as many sessions as are necessary during the writing of the report in order that the director can assess the evolution in the correct performance of it, taking into account Note that during the non-school period the principal will not have the obligation to attend to the student. Once the director considers that the work meets the requirements to be defended before the Court, he will sign the approval of the student and authorize its deposit by means of a standardized form. In said form the student will state in which defense period he wishes to present her work for its evaluation by the Court.

The report must be deposited in DEPOSITA (<http://deposita.unizar.es>), at the same time that it must communicate in the Secretary of the Faculty its willingness to attend the act of public defense in any of the periods established for that purpose, through an instance which will include the approval of the director or directors. Once the deposit has been made, the Secretary of the Faculty will send the final master's thesis to the Department Secretaries in pdf format for distribution among the members of the tribunal.

The deposit and defense dates will be published on the degree website.

The student may appear a maximum of two times within the course in which he / she had enrolled or in the next. Once this period has elapsed without the defense having been passed, the student must re-enroll.

In the case of students in second or successive enrollments in this subject, they will have the right, if they manifest it, to keep the director of the work, unless there are reasons that do not advise it.
