4.1. Methodological overview

Teaching shall be semi-presential combining virtual sessions and presential sessions on a monthly minimum basis. These presential sessions will be dedicated to assessment tasks and to those thematic blocks in which students' attendance, due to their content, increases greatly the comprehension of the subject.

- NON PRESENTIAL ACTIVITIES. All the activities will be carried out through the virtual campus providing students access to a great amount of relevant material. Besides, this kind of teaching will facilitate teacher-student interaction by means of chats and forums throughout the course. A key element for students will be to have a Working Guide for every subject, which will include a recommended schedule regarding the readings and activities included in each thematic unit aimed at facilitating the monitoring by the teacher
- PRESENTIAL-VIRTUAL ACTIVITIES. Some on the subjects will be delivered in virtual sessions in which the teacher will connect to a videoconference platform while students will connect from their own devices, so their presence is not required. These sessions will be carried out through the Armed Forces' platform, recently migrated to Moodle, and the implementation of a multiple videoconference platform, allowing students and teachers to build a teaching community where they can share their doubts, reflections and opinions. Online synchronous and asynchronous meetings, by means of tools such as forums of debate, chats or even videoconferences, will be open to voluntary participation. Guest lecturers or professionals can also participate. Planning will be fortnightly in order to promote the interaction between the students and their subjects and teachers.
- PRESENCIAL ACTIVITIES. They consist of traditional type lectures in which different kind of problems and assessments are addressed. They will take in those facilities in Madrid designated by the Ministry of Defense. Dates will be settled according to the academic schedule and the time table set by the Defense University Center.

4.2. Learning tasks

In order to achieve the objectives mentioned in section 3.1, the following activities shall be carried out:

- Presential sessions: theoretical and practical activities promoting student participation.
- Virtual sessions: theoretical and practical activities carried out in a virtual manner.
- Distance teaching: activities carried out through the virtual campus providing students with a great amount of material to work with.

- Teacher-student interaction by means of chats and forums developed throughout the sessions.
