sessions, where they explain and implement the content of the subject, which coincide with the contents of various projects and building work. Practical sessions, which will be developed and plasmarán the theoretical content in concrete and specific cases building projects. These classes have double typology: Workshop classes: development of the work done. Working individually or in groups according to the practice. Monitoring and supervision of the work by teachers. Exhibitions and debates: Explanation of the work performed, arguing solutions and establishing a debate and dialogue among students. contents Contents of the essential subject for obtaining learning outcomes. Of the topics presented, each student must be able to recognize those sections that apply in the various practical cases of a specific project. Each project has specific specifications. It is proposed to develop, in parallel to the theory, a prototype of a project, and go working and completing all documentation necessary for each case, knowing discern those contents that are applicable in each case, finding the optimal solution, so reasoned and justified. As topics are developed considering these practices will go either in class or through the Moodle platform.
